What decorative/functional details would be appropriate to a home as the weather becomes cooler?

There are a lot of decorative details in our home that we can incorporate and will be appropriate as the weather becomes cooler. For instance, in the living room, a nice blanket/throw will be a good addition and functional as well when the weather gets cooler. It will give an instant statement and a level of luxury and thoughtfulness in the space. A well coordinated blanket/throw [it can be patterned or plain] that goes with the whole look of the space will certainly be a winner and will make you ready for the cold weather.
